

Thursday.

Of course, we all go on Monday.
It is still possible I may go on Sunday, but not very likely.
Anyhow you can hardly write here after you get this. If you posted on Saturday morning
I might hear on Sunday morning but I might be gone before the post. So I shall not expect anything.

I am resting my ankles in shoes today, but all the afternoon I had to hang about the guns doing no physical work at all, it was cold.
It would not have been so bad
if there had been anything very interesting going on.

Thorburn goes with the guns on Saturday. He has been on my nerves most of the time, & I should be glad if he had a single ticket for Tunbridge.

This will leave at 6.30 pm. if I finish now.
So I will.

Freeman is at Bath.
I may see him ~~later~~ on Saturday.

Goodbye. Kiss the children. Edw.

Will Mervyn dig a bit of the garden sometimes?
This plot should be doing good to all the garden if it were dug.
